8 REBECCA ELLEN BURGESS,

No. CV-12-0407-JTR

9 Plaintiff,

ORDER GRANTING
DEFENDANT’S MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

10
11 v.

12 CAROLYN W. COLVIN,
13 Commissioner of Social Security,

14 Defendant.
15

16 BEFORE THE COURT are cross-Motions for Summary Judgment. ECF
17 No. 16, 19. Attorney Maureen J. Rosette represents Rebecca E. Burgess
18 (Plaintiff); Special Assistant United States Attorney Lisa Goldoftas represents the 19 Commissioner of Social Security (Defendant). The parties have consented to 20 proceed before a magistrate judge. ECF No. 4. After reviewing the administrative 21 record and briefs filed by the parties, the Court GRANTS Defendant’s Motion for 22 Summary Judgment and DENIES Plaintiff’s Motion for Summary Judgment.

23 JURISDICTION

24 Plaintiff filed an application for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) on 25 September 8, 2009, alleging disability since January 1, 1993, due to 26 “Fibromyalgia, Migraines, Depression, [and] ADHD.” Tr. 126, 150. Plaintiff later
27 amended her onset date of disability to September 8, 2009, the application date.
28 Tr. 42. The application was denied initially and upon reconsideration.

1 Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Caroline Siderius held a hearing on February 16,
2 2011, Tr. 38-85, and issued an unfavorable decision on March 15, 2011, Tr. 18-27.
3 The Appeals Council denied review on April 25, 2012. Tr. 1-6. The ALJ's March
4 2011 decision became the final decision of the Commissioner, which is appealable
5 to the district court pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 405(g). Plaintiff filed this action for 6 judicial review on June 18, 2012. ECF No. 1.

7 STATEMENT OF FACTS

8 The facts of the case are set forth in the administrative hearing transcript, the 9 ALJ's decision, and the briefs of the parties. They are only briefly summarized 10 here.

11 Plaintiff was born on May 13, 1960, and was 49 years old on the amended
12 alleged onset date, September 8, 2009. Tr. 42, 126. Plaintiff completed high 13 school and obtained an associate of arts degree in 1992. Tr. 46. She testified at the 14 administrative hearing that she was divorced, had four children, ages 22, 17, 13 15 and eight, lived with her three youngest children, and homeschooled her two 16 youngest children. Tr. 47, 51-53.

17 Plaintiff indicated the main thing keeping her from being able to work is 18 pain and fatigue. Tr. 45. She testified she had been dealing with symptoms since 19 she got pregnant with her second child in 1992. Tr. 46-47, 56. She first attributed 20 the symptoms to the pregnancy, but found she did not get better with time. Tr. 47.
21 Plaintiff stated she has pain every day from her armpits to the middle of her knees.
22 Tr. 48. She described the pain as "achy," like how you feel after working out and 23 not stretching. Tr. 48. She testified she also has right shoulder pain. Tr. 48.
24 Plaintiff reported she has never had surgery on her shoulder, instead opting for 25 physical therapy. Tr. 68. She stated she has some pain resulting from surgery on 26 varicose veins in both her legs, but it is managed well with compression stockings.
27 Tr. 68-69. She testified she also suffers debilitating migraine headaches twice a 28 month. Tr. 69, 71. She stated she used to have to go to the emergency room once

1 a month for the headaches, but now only goes maybe twice a year. Tr. 70. The 2 migraines last from half a day to four days, and she takes prescription medication
3 for the ailment. Tr. 69. She indicated she additionally has memory problems and 4 is tired all the time. Tr. 48, 72.

5 Plaintiff stated her typical day starts at 7:30 or 8:00 a.m. Tr. 53. After a 6 couple of hours, she reads with her two youngest children and then sets
7 schoolwork tasks for the children. Tr. 53. In the afternoon, the children will often 8 go on field trips with other homeschool families, and she will attempt to take a rest 9 and then start dinner. Tr. 53. She indicated she is “usually wrecked” after dinner.
10 Tr. 53. With respect to homeschooling her children, she testified she is actively 11 engaged with them a total of probably two hours a day. Tr. 70.

12 Plaintiff revealed she had a DUI in 2007, was drinking two or three times a 13 week at the time of the administrative hearing, and used marijuana from time to 14 time. Tr. 67. Plaintiff testified she does not keep up with housework, and her 15 children and a good friend help in that regard. Tr. 54. She also stated she attempts 16 to take walks to help with her depression, but struggles to get regular exercise. Tr.
17 55-56. She stated she walks about three days a week. Tr. 74.

18 Plaintiff indicated she could sit in a chair for an hour to an hour and a half at 19 one stretch and stand for an hour without moving. Tr. 73-74. She stated she could 20 not lift with her right arm, but could lift probably 20 pounds at one time with her 21 left arm and lift 10 to 15 pounds consistently without having problems the next 22 day. Tr. 75-76.

23 Joselyn E. Bailey, M.D., testified as a medical expert at the administrative 24 hearing. Tr. 60-66. Dr. Bailey opined that fibromyalgia appeared to be Plaintiff’s 25 main problem, but that she also had a history of migraines, a history of depression, 26 intermittent carpal tunnel syndrome and attention deficit disorder. Tr. 62-63. Dr.
27 Bailey stated that Plaintiff’s depression may be the origin of her pain. Tr. 63.
28 However, she still opined that fibromyalgia was a severe impairment for Plaintiff.

1 Tr. 65.

2 ADMINISTRATIVE DECISION

3 The ALJ found that Plaintiff had not engaged in substantial gainful activity 4 since September 8, 2009, the application date. Tr. 20. The ALJ determined, at 5 step two, that Plaintiff had the following severe impairments: Fibromyalgia and 6 Depression. Tr. 20. The ALJ specifically determined Plaintiff's impairments of 7 migraine headaches, ADHD, carpal tunnel disorder, and venous insufficiency 8 (varicose veins) did not cause more than minimal limitations in her ability to 9 perform basic mental work activities and were thus non-severe impairments. Tr.
10 20-21.

11 At step three, the ALJ found Plaintiff's impairments, alone and in 12 combination, did not meet or medically equal one of the listed impairments. Tr.
13 21. The ALJ assessed Plaintiff's RFC and determined that she could perform light 14 work with the following limitations: she requires a sit/stand option; she is unable to 15 climb ladders, ropes, and scaffolds; she is able to occasionally overhead reach with 16 the right dominant arm; she should avoid concentrated exposure to loud noises;
17 and she is able to have contact with the general public no more than occasionally.
18 Tr. 22, 25.

19 At step four, the ALJ found that Plaintiff has no past relevant work. Tr. 25.
20 At step five, the ALJ concluded that, considering Plaintiff's age, education, work
21 experience and RFC, and based on the testimony of the vocational expert, there
22 were jobs that exist in significant numbers in the national economy that Plaintiff
23 could perform. Tr. 25-26. The ALJ thus determined that Plaintiff was not under a 24 disability within the meaning of the Social Security Act at any time from 25 September 8, 2009, the application date, through the date of the ALJ's decision, 26 March 15, 2011. Tr. 26-27.

27 STANDARD OF REVIEW

28 In Edlund v. Massanari, 253 F.3d 1152, 1156 (9th Cir. 2001), the Court set

1 out the standard of review:

2 A district court's order upholding the Commissioner's denial of benefits is 3 reviewed de novo. Harman v. Apfel, 211 F.3d 1172, 1174 (9th Cir. 2000). The 4 decision of the Commissioner may be reversed only if it is not supported by 5 substantial evidence or if it is based on legal error. Tackett v. Apfel, 180 F.3d
6 1094, 1097 (9th Cir. 1999). Substantial evidence is defined as being more than a 7 mere scintilla, but less than a preponderance. Id. at 1098. Put another way, 8 substantial evidence is such relevant evidence as a reasonable mind might accept 9 as adequate to support a conclusion. Richardson v. Perales, 402 U.S. 389, 401
10 (1971). If the evidence is susceptible to more than one rational interpretation, the 11 Court may not substitute its judgment for that of the Commissioner. Tackett, 180
12 F.3d at 1097; Morgan v. Commissioner of Social Sec. Admin., 169 F.3d 595, 599
13 (9th Cir. 1999).

14 The ALJ is responsible for determining credibility, resolving conflicts in 15 medical testimony, and resolving ambiguities. Andrews v. Shalala, 53 F.3d 1035, 16 1039 (9th Cir. 1995). The ALJ's determinations of law are reviewed de novo, 17 although deference is owed to a reasonable construction of the applicable statutes.
18 McNatt v. Apfel, 201 F.3d 1084, 1087 (9th Cir. 2000).

19 It is the role of the trier of fact, not this Court, to resolve conflicts in 20 evidence. Richardson, 402 U.S. at 400. If evidence supports more than one 21 rational interpretation, the Court may not substitute its judgment for that of the 22 Commissioner. Tackett, 180 F.3d at 1097; Allen v. Heckler, 749 F.2d 577, 579
23 (9th Cir. 1984). Nevertheless, a decision supported by substantial evidence will 24 still be set aside if the proper legal standards were not applied in weighing the 25 evidence and making the decision. Browner v. Secretary of Health and Human 26 Services, 839 F.2d 432, 433 (9th Cir. 1988). If substantial evidence exists to 27 support the administrative findings, or if conflicting evidence exists that will 28 support a finding of either disability or non-disability, the Commissioner's determination is conclusive. Sprague v. Bowen, 812 F.2d 1226, 1229-1230 (9th Cir. 1987).

SEQUENTIAL EVALUATION PROCESS

The Commissioner has established a five-step sequential evaluation process for determining whether a person is disabled. 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.1520(a), 416.920(a); see, Bowen v. Yuckert, 482 U.S. 137, 140-142 (1987). In steps one through four, the burden of proof rests upon the claimant to establish a prima facie case of entitlement to disability benefits. Tackett, 180 F.3d at 1098-1099. This burden is met once a claimant establishes that a physical or mental impairment prevents him from engaging in his previous occupation. 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.1520(a)(4), 416.920(a)(4). If a claimant cannot do his past relevant work, the ALJ proceeds to step five, and the burden shifts to the Commissioner to show that (1) the claimant can make an adjustment to other work; and (2) specific jobs exist in the national economy which claimant can perform. Batson v. Commissioner of Social Sec. Admin., 359 F.3d 1190, 1193-1194 (2004). If a claimant cannot make an adjustment to other work in the national economy, a finding of “disabled” is made. 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.1520(a)(4)(i-v), 416.920(a)(4)(i-v).

ISSUES

The question presented is whether substantial evidence exists to support the ALJ’s decision denying benefits and, if so, whether that decision is based on proper legal standards. Plaintiff contends that the ALJ erred because she is more limited from a physical and psychological standpoint than what was determined by the ALJ. ECF No. 17 at 8. Plaintiff additionally provides a brief argument that the ALJ failed to properly consider and reject her testimony regarding the limitations from her impairments. ECF No. 17 at 11-12.

DISCUSSION

A. Physical Limitations

Plaintiff first contends that the ALJ improperly rejected the opinions of

1 Mary Sheridan, PA-C, regarding her physical limitations. ECF No. 17 at 8-10.
2 Plaintiff specifically argues that Ms. Sheridan's January 21, 2011, report, Tr. 267-3 269, demonstrates she is more limited from a physical standpoint than what was 4 determined by the ALJ in this case. Id.

5 Ms. Sheridan filled out a Documentation Request for Medical or Disability
6 Condition form on January 21, 2011. Tr. 267-279. Ms. Sheridan diagnosed 7 Fibromyalgia and ADD and indicated Plaintiff had chronic pain, memory deficits
8 and poor concentration. Tr. 267. She noted that Plaintiff's impairments caused her
9 to be unable to stand or sit for long periods and that Plaintiff has to change
10 positions periodically. Tr. 267. Ms. Sheridan checked a box indicating Plaintiff
11 was limited to sedentary work. Tr. 268.

12 As noted by the ALJ, Ms. Sheridan, a certified physician assistant, is not an 13 acceptable medical source. Tr. 24. Only acceptable medical sources can give 14 medical opinions. 20 C.F.R. § 416.927(a)(2). Although Plaintiff argues that Ms.
15 Sheridan was working in conjunction with physicians at Rockwood Clinic and,
16 thus, her opinion should constitute that of an acceptable medical source, ECF No.
17 17 at 9, there is no evidence that Ms. Sheridan regularly consulted with or was 18 closely supervised by a physician in this case. Gomez v. Chater, 74 F.3d 967, 971
19 (9th Cir. 1996) (non-physicians working under supervision are to be treated as 20 teams); see, also, Farnacio v. Astrue, 2012 WL 4045216 at *6, 11-cv-0065-JPH 21 (E.D. Wash. 2012) ("There is no provision for a physician assistant to become an 22 acceptable medical source when supervised by a physician or as part of an 23 interdisciplinary team."). Ms. Sheridan's testimony and opinions do not qualify as 24 "medical evidence . . . from an acceptable medical source" as required by the 25 Social Security Regulations. 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.1513, 416.913.

26 The ALJ gave Ms. Sheridan's "other source" opinion little weight because it
27 was not consistent with the medical evidence of record, which suggested Plaintiff's
28 pain was responsive to treatment. Tr. 24. To reject other source evidence, an ALJ

1 must provide germane reasons. Turner v. Comm'r of Soc. Sec., 613 F.3d 1217,
2 1224 (9th Cir. 2010). On March 9, 2009, J. Makrina Shanbour, M.D., indicated
3 Plaintiff was “doing much better overall.” Tr. 202. On June 19, 2009, Dr.
4 Shanbour stated that Plaintiff was doing well and was off medication for 5 depression. Tr. 200. On September 29, 2009, Dr. Shanbour indicated Plaintiff had 6 increased pain since she stopped using methadone, Tr. 193, 195; however, Dr.
7 Shanbour reported on October 28, 2009, that Plaintiff was coping with the pain.
8 Tr. 232. By January 11, 2010, Dr. Shanbour indicated Plaintiff was doing well on 9 a new prescription, naltrexone, and was pain free for the first time in years. Tr.
10 227. Medical records from Rockwood Clinic indicate on September 29, 2009, that 11 Plaintiff was exercising more and riding her bike several times a week, Tr. 193, on 12 June 8, 2010, that Plaintiff “feels that she has been more active than she has in the 13 last 10 years, even off the naltrexone,” Tr. 253, and, on June 29, 2010, that 14 Plaintiff was “feeling very well currently,” Tr. 248. In fact, Ms. Sheridan reported 15 on January 21, 2011, that Plaintiff’s pain was successfully treated with naltrexone.
16 Tr. 341. Ms. Sheridan’s January 21, 2011, opinion that Plaintiff was limited to 17 sedentary work is not consistent with the weight of the medical evidence, which 18 supports the ALJ’s conclusion that Plaintiff’s pain was managed by treatment. Tr.
19 24. The ALJ’s interpretation of the evidence is consistent with the record as a 20 whole, including Plaintiff’s own reported abilities.¹

21 Based on the foregoing, the ALJ provided germane reasons for rejecting Ms.
22 Sheridan’s “other source” opinion that Plaintiff’s physical abilities were severely 23

24 ¹Plaintiff testified at the administrative hearing that she could probably lift
25 20 pounds at one time with her left arm and lift 10 to 15 pounds consistently
26 without having problems the next day. Tr. 75-76. “Light work” involves lifting no 27 more than 20 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing 28 up to 10 pounds. 20 C.F.R. § 404.1567(b).

1 limited. The record does not support a more restrictive finding than Plaintiff being 2 restricted to a range of light exertion level work. Accordingly, the undersigned 3 finds the ALJ's physical RFC determination is in accord with the weight of the 4 record evidence and free of legal error.

5 B. Mental Limitations

6 Plaintiff also contends the ALJ erred by failing to properly account for her
7 significant psychological limitations. ECF No. 17 at 11-12. Plaintiff specifically
8 argues that the ALJ failed to give specific and legitimate reasons for discounting 9 the mental limitations assessed by Amy Robinson, M.S., under the supervision of 10 W. Scott Mabee, Ph.D. Id.

11 The ALJ determined that Plaintiff could perform a restricted range of light 12 exertion level work. Tr. 22, 25. With respect to non-exertional limitations, the 13 ALJ concluded Plaintiff should avoid concentrated exposure to loud noises and 14 have no more than occasional contact with the general public. Tr. 22, 25. The 15 undersigned finds this RFC determination is supported by substantial record
16 evidence. See infra.

17 The relevant time period in this action is from September 8, 2009 (the 18 alleged onset date) through March 15, 2011 (the date of the ALJ's determination in 19 this case). Evidence from outside of this period of time can be deemed useful as 20 background information; however, it is irrelevant to the extent that it does not 21 address Plaintiff's medical status during the relevant period at issue in this action.
22 See, Fair v. Bowen, 885 F.2d 597, 600 (9th Cir. 1989) (medical opinions that 23 predate the alleged onset of disability are of limited relevance). Dr. Mabee's 24 consultative evaluation, Tr. 256-266, was completed on August 4, 2008, more than 25 one year before Plaintiff's alleged onset date. Nevertheless, the ALJ addressed Dr.
26 Mabee's report and, contrary to Plaintiff's assertion, accorded weight to Dr.
27 Mabee's opinion that Plaintiff was uncomfortable in social situations and had 28 moderate difficulties interacting appropriately and meaningfully with others. Tr.

24, 261. The ALJ accounted for this limitation by restricting Plaintiff's RFC to no more than occasional contact with the general public. Tr. 25.

On December 14, 2009, state agency reviewing physician Gary L. Nelson, Ph.D., filled out a Psychiatric Review Technique form. Tr. 211-224. On March 29, 2010, James Bailey, Ph.D., reviewed the record and affirmed Dr. Nelson's opinion regarding Plaintiff. Tr. 235. Dr. Nelson and Dr. Bailey opined that Plaintiff had normal affect, attention span, and concentration and indicated she was doing well off medication. Tr. 25. Plaintiff's "Psych" was also found normal by Ms. Sheridan on January 21, 2011. Tr. 24, 342. On her last examination on February 10, 2011, it was noted that Plaintiff's depression was stable. Tr. 338. Finally, medical expert Bailey indicated at the administrative hearing that the record reflected Plaintiff was "doing well" and was even capable of homeschooling her children. Tr. 63. As determined by the ALJ, the record reflects that Plaintiff's depression was under control during the relevant time period in this case.

The medical evidence of record does not support a more restrictive mental RFC assessment in this case. The ALJ's RFC determination is in accord with the weight of the record evidence and free of error.

C. Plaintiff's Credibility

Plaintiff also provides a cursory argument that the ALJ erred by failing to properly consider her subjective complaints. ECF No. 17 at 11. Plaintiff argues that the ALJ failed to state specific reasons to reject her testimony regarding fatigue and a need to lie down for an hour or two each day. ECF No. 17 at 12.

It is the province of the ALJ to make credibility determinations. Andrews v. Shalala, 53 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 1995). However, the ALJ's findings must be supported by specific cogent reasons. Rashad v. Sullivan, 903 F.2d 1229, 1231 (9th Cir. 1990). Once the claimant produces medical evidence of an underlying medical impairment, the ALJ may not discredit testimony as to the severity of an impairment because it is unsupported by medical evidence. Reddick v. Chater, 157

1 F.3d 715, 722 (9th Cir. 1998). Absent affirmative evidence of malingering, the 2 ALJ's reasons for rejecting the claimant's testimony must be "clear and 3 convincing." Lester v. Chater, 81 F.3d 821, 834 (9th Cir. 1995). "General
4 findings are insufficient: rather the ALJ must identify what testimony is not 5 credible and what evidence undermines the claimant's complaints." Lester, 81
6 F.3d at 834; Dodrill v. Shalala, 12 F.3d 915, 918 (9th Cir. 1993).

7 In this case, the ALJ found Plaintiff's medically determinable impairments
8 could reasonably be expected to cause the alleged symptoms; however, Plaintiff's 9 statements concerning the intensity, persistence and limiting effects of the 10 symptoms were not credible to the extent they were inconsistent with the ALJ's
11 RFC assessment. Tr. 23.

12 As indicated by the ALJ, Plaintiff provided an inconsistent statement
13 regarding her migraine headaches at the administrative hearing. Tr. 20.
14 Inconsistencies in a disability claimant's testimony supports a decision by the ALJ
15 that a claimant lacks credibility with respect to her claim of disabling pain. Nyman
16 v. Heckler, 779 F.2d 528, 531 (9th Cir. 1986). Although Plaintiff testified on 17 February 16, 2011, that she has migraines two times per month and goes to the 18 emergency room twice per year for the ailment, Tr. 69-71, the medical records
19 reveal she only went to the hospital once in 2009 and did not go at all in 2010, Tr.
20 20, 329. On September 29, 2009, Plaintiff indicated she had not had any 21 significant migraines for the last couple of years, and, on June 8, 2010, Plaintiff
22 reported she had been headache free for years. Tr. 20, 254, 329. The ALJ notes
23 there is no other medical record after June 8, 2010, which mentions debilitating
24 headaches. Tr. 20. The ALJ appropriately considered Plaintiff's inconsistent 25 testimony to discount her subjective complaints.

26 The ALJ further noted that the objective medical evidence does not support
27 Plaintiff's allegations of total disability, Tr. 23, and, as discussed above, the ALJ
28 properly assessed the medical records in this case. A lack of supporting objective

1 medical evidence is a factor which may be considered in evaluating a claimant's
2 credibility, provided it is not the sole factor. Bunnell v. Sullivan, 347 F.2d 341,
3 345 (9th Cir. 1991). The ALJ noted that, although Plaintiff complained of chronic 4 pain associated with Fibromyalgia, her condition has been noted as stable in 5 several of her doctor's visits. Tr. 23. The ALJ indicated that Plaintiff's reports of 6 pain were contradicted by reports from her physicians that the treatment she 7 received had been generally successful in controlling her symptoms. Tr. 23.
8 Specifically, the ALJ indicated Dr. Shanbour reported on October 28, 2009, that 9 Plaintiff was off her prescription for Methadone and was coping with the pain, Tr.
10 23, 232; on January 11, 2010, Dr. Shanbour stated that Plaintiff was doing well on 11 a new prescription, naltrexone, and was pain free for the first time in years, Tr. 23, 12 227; and medical records from Rockwood Clinic indicate on June 8, 2010, that 13 Plaintiff "feels that she has been more active than she has in the last 10 years, even 14 off the naltrexone," Tr. 253, and, on June 29, 2010, that Plaintiff was "feeling very 15 well currently," Tr. 248. The objective medical evidence does not support 16 Plaintiff's claim of disabling limitations. It was appropriate for the ALJ to 17 conclude that the objective medical evidence does not support the level of 18 limitation Plaintiff has alleged in this case.

19 The ALJ also noted Plaintiff's activities as inconsistent with her alleged 20 limitation. Tr. 23. It is well-established that the nature of daily activities may be 21 considered when evaluating credibility. Fair v. Bowen, 885 F.2d 597, 603 (9th Cir.
22 1989). The ALJ indicated Plaintiff described daily activities of homeschooling her 23 children, which requires her to read and set tasks for the children, as well as some 24 housecleaning. Plaintiff additionally testified she attempts to take walks to help 25 with her depression and would walk about three days a week. Tr. 55-56, 74. This 26 level of activity is not consistent with Plaintiff's claim of disabling impairments.

27 The ALJ further noted that despite complaints of disabling symptoms, there 28 have been periods of time since the alleged onset date during which Plaintiff has

1 not taken any medication for those alleged symptoms. Tr. 23-24. Noncompliance 2 with medical care or unexplained or inadequately explained reasons for failing to 3 seek medical treatment cast doubt on a claimant's subjective complaints. 20
4 C.F.R. §§ 404.1530, 426.930; Fair v. Bowen, 885 F.2d 597, 603 (9th Cir. 1989).
5 Plaintiff said she could not afford the medication, but she provided no reason or 6 explanation of her financial situation, and the record reflects that at no time was 7 any other treatment or medication unavailable for financial reasons. The fact that 8 Plaintiff stopped taking her prescribed medications during the relevant time period 9 discounts her claim of disabling pain and limitations.

10 Lastly, the ALJ indicated Plaintiff has displayed drug-seeking and addictive 11 behavior. Tr. 24. An ALJ may properly consider evidence of a claimant's drug 12 use and drug-seeking behavior in assessing credibility. Edlund v. Massanari, 253
13 F.3d 1152, 1157 (9th Cir. 2001).

14 The ALJ is responsible for reviewing the evidence and resolving conflicts or 15 ambiguities in testimony. Magallanes v. Bowen, 881 F.2d 747, 751 (9th Cir.
16 1989). It is the role of the trier of fact, not this Court, to resolve conflicts in 17 evidence. Richardson, 402 U.S. at 400. The Court has a limited role in 18 determining whether the ALJ's decision is supported by substantial evidence and 19 may not substitute its own judgment for that of the ALJ even if it might justifiably
20 have reached a different result upon de novo review. 42 U.S.C. § 405(g).

21 After reviewing the record, the undersigned finds that the reasons provided 22 by the ALJ for discounting Plaintiff's subjective complaints are clear, convincing, 23 and fully supported by the record. Accordingly, the ALJ did not err by concluding 24 that Plaintiff's subjective complaints regarding the extent of her functional 25 limitations were not entirely credible in this case.

26 CONCLUSION

27 Having reviewed the record and the ALJ's findings, the Court concludes the 28 ALJ's decision is supported by substantial evidence and free of legal error.

1 Accordingly,

2 IT IS ORDERED:

3 1. Defendant's Motion for Summary Judgment, ECF No. 19, is 4 GRANTED.

5 2. Plaintiff's Motion for Summary Judgment, ECF No. 16, is DENIED.

6 The District Court Executive is directed to file this Order and provide a copy
7 to counsel for Plaintiff and Defendant. Judgment shall be entered for Defendant
8 and the file shall be CLOSED.
